Calling Notice

Thursday 11 January 2018

You can’t manage what you can’t measure
– how can we do this better?
Paul Jackson and Jonathan Marshall
Tanium UK

Talk Details

For those organisations large enough to run their own Cyber SOC, or have one provided by an MSP, the need to be able to hunt at speed and scale is paramount. However, companies large and small need to be able to do the basics well without tying up significant resource. The old adage of “you can’t manage what you can’t measure” is as true in the IT operations world as any other business environment so the presentation will highlight some real world examples and what can be done to improve the situation.

Speaker Details

Paul Jackson. Head of Public Sector, Tanium UK since April 2015. Previously ran FireEye in the UK and spent many years working for Thales. For the last 20+ years has worked closely with UK Govt, CNI Operators and Defence Contractors across a number of security domains.

Jonathan Marshall, Director, Technical Account Management, Tanium UK since Aug 2015. He has a broad experience working in IT over the last 17 years, ranging from application middleware development and deployment, through to endpoint security and management, most recently helping deploy large scale Tanium implementations in the UK.
